I guess there is nothing that will get your mind off everything like golf. I have never been depressed enough to take up the game, but they say you get so sore at yourself you forget to hate your enemies.

Accelerating the search for a cure

About Multiple Myeloma

Multiple myeloma is an incurable blood cancer. The five-year relative survival rate for multiple myeloma is approximately 38 percent, one of the lowest of all cancers. In 2010, more than 20,000 adults in the United States will be diagnosed with multiple myeloma and nearly 11,000 people are predicted to die from the disease.

About the Research Foundation (MMRF)

The mission of the MMRF is to relentlessly pursue innovative means that accelerate the development of next-generation multiple myeloma treatments to extend the lives of patients and lead to a cure.

By working closely with researchers, clinicians and partners in the biotech and pharmaceutical industry, the MMRF helped accelerate the development of four new treatments – Velcade®, Revlimid®, Thalomid®, and Doxil® – that are extending the lives of multiple myeloma patients and are being explored as treatments for more than 30 other cancers.

The MMRF's focus on speed, innovation, and results has received strong validation across the scientific community and from The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, and "The New Yorker," to CNBC and Harvard Business School.

Multiple Myeloma Research Consortium (MMRC)

The Multiple Myeloma Research Consortium (MMRC) is a 509(a)3 non-profit organization that champions speed, innovation, and collaboration with and integration across academia and industry to bring the most promising multiple myeloma treatments to patients faster. It was founded by Kathy Giusti, a myeloma patient and Founder and Chief Executive Officer of the MMRF, and with the help of the scientific community.

The City of Hope National Medical Center is a member of the MMRC and therefore a portion of the funds raised from this event will be donated to the City of Hope.
